Chief Executive Officer's Message

Since its inception in the 1960s the Bruce Trail Conservancy has had a unique and powerful model for protecting the Niagara Escarpment.

We protect and steward natural places and the species that thrive in them, and we encourage people to explore those natural places by walking and caring for our iconic Bruce Trail. We believe that when people are connected to nature, we can achieve better conservation outcomes.

In the last few decades, this premise has been tested to incredible depths. We have experienced significant population growth and rapid development of the Niagara Escarpment. We are bearing witness to the effects of climate change and an incredible decline in global biodiversity.

While the challenges are real, our dedication and passion for overcoming them has inspired the creation of a new strategic plan to guide our work to 2030. Led by an aspiration for what is possible, and developed in collaboration with the talented BTC staff, the dedicated BTC board, and the strong support of our nine Bruce Trail Clubs, this new strategy propels us forward to deliver on our mission.

In this issue of Bruce Trail Conservancy Magazine, I'm thrilled to introduce the BTC's 2030 Strategy. On pages 10-15 you'll read more about our goals and priorities, how the plan came about, and where it will take us.

The 2030 Strategy will enable us to be a global leader in conservation, stewards of a world-class trail system, and a people-powered organization filled with a diverse group of individuals who share their talents and generosity to make it all happen. While our core activities will remain largely the same, the pace, scale and ambition of our work are expanding significantly.

As we embark on this new strategy, we commit to building an organization that truly welcomes everyone. We also commit to being an organization that understands its role in making Truth and Reconciliation real in our communities.

Through raising awareness, taking sustainable approaches to conservation, and providing opportunities for people to experience nature, we can ensure that the benefits of nature are enjoyed for generations to come. While the world is changing rapidly, the Bruce Trail Conservancy is more than ever committed to fulfilling our mission to preserve a ribbon of wilderness, for everyone, forever. I look forward to our continued work together in this critical time for people and our planet. •

NATURE SMART CLIMATE SOLUTIONS FUND

Matching Gifts Reach Over $1 Million

Thank you to over 1,550 donors who made a year-end gift to the Bruce Trail Conservancy to help advance our most urgent land securement and conservation goals.

By January 2023, your thoughtful gifts reached over $1 million which will be matched with funds from Environment and Climate Change Canada's Nature Smart Climate Solutions Fund. With this remarkable response, the Bruce Trail Conservancy will be able to act swiftly to add ecologically important lands into our conservation corridor. We look forward to sharing our latest successes with you in the coming weeks.

Supporting Nature-based Solutions to Climate Change

Only the lands with the greatest potential to mitigate climate change are eligible for this matching grant. These include properties with large areas of forest or wetland, or opportunities for grassland restoration. Our experience in securing and actively stewarding 18,889 acres of Escarpment land, has given us the skill to add and restore these vital, carbon-rich habitats within our conservation corridor.

The Match Continues

These matching funds are part of a five-year, $5 million matching grant from Environment and Climate Change Canada awarded to the Bruce Trail Conservancy in 2022. This federal grant represents the largest government investment ever in our work. It recognizes the importance of protecting the Niagara Escarpment's vulnerable and valuable lands and endorses our expertise as one of Canada's leading environmental charities.

It's not too late to make a gift that will have twice the impact. Donate today at brucetrail.org

Bruce Trail Conservancy's

2030 Strategy

An Ambitious Plan for Conservation and Connection to Nature

In the last six decades, the Bruce Trail Conservancy's creative approach to conservation and exploration of natural places has delivered many incredible outcomes.

It's clear that today, the natural world is under threat like never before. We are facing complex challenges which call for big, ambitious plans—for people and nature. The work of the Bruce Trail Conservancy has never been more important.

To address these challenges the Bruce Trail Conservancy has developed the 2030 Strategy. This plan brings enhanced urgency to our work, increases the scale of our activities for greater impact, and brings connection to nature front and centre.

Our mission, vision and values remain the same; they are a clear and positive expression of what we want to accomplish and how we work. The new strategy strengthens our relevance and ambition, and creates commitments that will significantly advance our mission to preserve a ribbon of wilderness, for everyone, forever.

The 2030 Strategy is centred on five strategic and interconnected goals: urgently protect land; restore and care for Niagara Escarpment land; enhance the Bruce Trail experience; inspire generosity; and, support people and culture. Each goal is supported by strategic priorities. Together they organize our collective efforts and guide our decision-making. Like a map, they help chart our path forward.

Emphasizing both people and place, the 2030 Strategy encompasses the fullness of the work we do as a leading Canadian land trust, a conservation organization, and stewards of Canada's oldest and longest marked footpath. It brings focus to creating positive and meaningful experiences along our iconic Bruce Trail. It reflects a renewed commitment to building a diverse and inclusive community, and deepening connections to nature. It recognizes the importance of welcoming Indigenous voices and knowledge into our work. It ensures we remain accountable to our members, donors, volunteers, and above all, the Niagara Escarpment.

"This bold strategy will enable the Bruce Trail Conservancy to be a global leader in conservation, the steward of a world-class trail system, and a people-powered organization filled with diverse individuals who share their talents and generosity to make it all happen."

The strategic planning process was in depth and collaborative, drawing on the knowledge, ideas and experience of Bruce Trail Conservancy staff, board and volunteers. Each of the nine Bruce Trail Clubs contributed perspectives, insights, and advice to help shape the final 2030 Strategy. The result is a collective commitment that will guide our work to 2030 while strengthening our ability to meet ongoing and future challenges. Our strategic priorities will be measured, assessed and monitored regularly by the board, to ensure we make progress on our goals and respond with flexibility to new opportunities.

“In this exciting new phase of the Bruce Trail Conservancy’s journey, we’re expanding the scale and pace of our work to address the urgent challenges facing the natural world. Our 2030 Strategy sets an ambitious plan for collaborative and meaningful action for the Bruce Trail and the Niagara Escarpment.”

As we take these bold steps over the next seven years, we will share our progress and celebrate the wins along the way. With our new strategic guidebook in hand, the Bruce Trail Conservancy is ready to embark on the path ahead. •

Showing Our Pride and Building an Inclusive Outdoors

It's a simple patch, but it can mean so much.

The Bruce Trail Conservancy logo, surrounded by the bright, welcoming colours of the rainbow. Seeing it can give someone a sense of belonging, pride, relief or safety. Wearing it can show your support for building an inclusive community, on the Trail and off.

The Bruce Trail Conservancy believes that preserving a ribbon of wilderness along the Niagara Escarpment is of the utmost importance for future generations. But to be successful in our mission, this ribbon of wilderness must truly be for everyone.

We know that people of many different identities use the Bruce Trail to explore nature, improve their mental and physical health, and connect with each other. We also recognize that outdoor spaces and conservation organizations have not always felt welcoming for all and that there is still work to do to create spaces in which everyone feels safe.

In using the rainbow flag colours, the BTC Pride Badge is one small visible way to show support for 2SLGBTQ+ communities and allies. We encourage Trail users and BTC supporters to wear the badge on their packs or hiking gear to foster a welcoming, safe, and inclusive environment for all on the Bruce Trail and beyond.

World Trails Network: Learning and Collaboration in Support of Trails

Around the world people are building and stewarding amazing trails to connect people to unique natural environments and cultural experiences. A growing global community of trail organizations is coming together in support of sustainable trails worldwide.

As a founding member of the World Trails Network (WTN), the Bruce Trail Conservancy is working with international trail organizations to “foster global collaboration and networking for the betterment of the world’s trails”. The WTN strives to connect the diverse trails of the world to promote the creation, enhancement, and protection of outstanding trail experiences and the benefits trails provide.

Diverse Routes, Common Ground

Although trails in different countries traverse radically different landscapes, climates, and political and cultural settings, there can be remarkable similarities in the goals of those creating and caring for the trails and in the challenges they face. There is much we can learn from each other.

Through global conferences, joint projects, and cross-promotional programs (like the International Friendship Trail program), the WTN is building ways in which people can exchange ideas, share expertise, and create tangible solutions for common problems.

WTN’s international task teams are taking on projects in nine focus areas: conservation, sustainability, education and inclusive engagement, tourism, knowledge and research, communities, media, arts and culture, and technology.

Sharing Expertise and Leadership

The Bruce Trail Conservancy is a strong partner in the World Trails Network with several staff taking on leadership roles with WTN this past year:

- Jackie Randle, BTC VP of Operations, was elected Chair of the World Trails Network during the World Trails Conference in Skiathos, Greece in September.

Jackie Randle (r)

- Brooke Henry, BTC Communications Coordinator, was named a World Trails Network Ambassador - one of 11 emerging leaders and young trail professionals who are developing new ideas for the WTN.

Brooke Henry

- Adam Brylowski, BTC Manager of Conservation and Trail, was invited to speak at the Asia Trails Conference in Taiwan and represented the BTC at this regional gathering of the WTN.

World Trails Conference 2022

New Friendship Trail:

Mountains to Sea National Greenway

The Mountains to Sea National Greenway in Taiwan (MSTW) stretches 177 km from Mount Jade to the seashore at Taijiang National Park - taking hikers from the highest point on the island to its western coast.

In December 2022, a portion of this beautiful path was twinned with the Bruce Trail in a sign of international collaboration in support of trails. It marks the tenth Friendship Trail created between the Bruce Trail Conservancy and an international trail.

The Bruce Trail is twinned with section 26 of the MSTW - the Tefuye Trail - a section with deep ties to the diverse ethnic cultures of Taiwan, including the local Indigenous Tsou community, and featuring much of Taiwan's natural beauty. Running from Tefuye to Zizhong through magnificent cedar forests, it follows a preserved section of the old Shuishan Forest Railway Line.

The opening ceremony for this newest Friendship Trail took place in Taiwan, with BTC staff Jackie Randle and Adam Brylowski in attendance. The group gathered at the entrance to the Tefuye Trail, with views of Mount Jade in the distance. After an official welcome from members of the Tsou community, the Taiwan Thousand Miles Trail Association (TMI Trail) and the Taiwan Forestry Bureau, the friendship trail sign was unveiled and the group took a short hike. The twinned route along the Bruce Trail for the Mountains to Sea National Greenway Friendship Trail will be opening in the Iroquoia section in 2024.

Walking Through Time

Available soon at bruce-trail.org/store

In Walking Through Time Beth Gilhespy shares her love affair with the geology of Ontario's Niagara Escarpment.

Beth takes readers on a journey to explore the formation of the Niagara Escarpment and the interesting and ancient geological features found along the Bruce Trail in the Beaver Valley area. By providing maps, photos and descriptive text for eight geology hikes in the Beaver Valley, she encourages readers to head to the Escarpment for their own geological explorations.

"To me, every walk on the Niagara Escarpment is a walk through time, starting 450 million years ago and continuing through the millennia to the still-changing landscape of today," shares Beth, "I have found profound delight in sharing my love of Escarpment geology with thousands of others on geology hikes I lead as a volunteer between 2003 and 2018. This book is a culmination of many years of exploration and encouragement from those geology hikers, and from the volunteers with whom I connected and who remain my friends."

Walking Through Time is in production and will be available soon through the Bruce Trail Conservancy store and at a launch event this spring hosted by the Beaver Valley Bruce Trail Club.

A Tax-Effective Way of Supporting Conservation: Gifts of Registered Funds

You can make a significant gift for conservation and reduce taxes on your estate while retaining what you need for retirement by including the Bruce Trail Conservancy as a beneficiary in your RRSP, RRIF or TFSA.

How to Make a Gift of Registered Funds

It's simple to donate the proceeds of a registered account such as a registered retirement savings plan (RRSP), a registered retirement income fund (RRIF), or a tax-free savings account (TFSA).

1. Speak with your professional advisor (accountant, lawyer, financial planner) to see if this type of donation works for you.
2. Contact your plan provider with a request for a 'Change in Beneficiary' or 'Multiple Beneficiary Designation Form'.
3. Complete the form and designate The Bruce Trail Conservancy as sole or partial beneficiary, and return the form to your provider.
4. (optional) Get in touch with the Bruce Trail Conservancy to let us know you have made your gift so that we can recognize your generosity and convey our appreciation.

Benefits of Donating Registered Funds

- You retain full control of what you need during your lifetime, while arranging a bigger contribution than you thought possible towards preserving a ribbon of wilderness for future generations.
- A gift of registered funds can help offset the significant tax burden on your estate, further benefitting your loved ones.
- Your registered funds are not part of your estate, and so are not subject to probate fees.
- There is no cost to arrange the gift other than your time.

Calculating Your Impact

The Bruce Trail Conservancy continues to partner with Will Power, a national movement inspiring Canadians to think differently about charitable giving, and leave a gift to charity in their Wills. Through the campaign, you can access free resources to assist you in the estate planning process, including a legacy calculator. This simple tool allows you to see how you don't have to choose between the Bruce Trail Conservancy and loved ones in your Will or estate plans. You can do both!

Check out the easy-to-use legacy calculator on our Will Power page: www.willpower.ca/charities/bruce-trail-conservancy

Record Number of End-to-End Recognitions in 2022

A remarkable 254 members received their End-to-End recognition in 2022 – more than in any of the past 13 years at least. Some completed the whole trail within the year. Others finished off that final section after years of hiking. And still others finally compiled their hike logs from previous years and submitted them.

What was it about 2022 that made it such a remarkable year for End-to-End recognition? As with so many things, the pandemic may have played a part. Travel and gathering restrictions in 2020-21 put many individual hiking plans and Club End-to-End events on hold. Yet during that same time, more and more people were (re)discovering the Bruce Trail as a way to reconnect with nature. With restrictions lifted and motivation to hike (re)kindled, more end-to-enders were able to complete their journeys in 2022. Though it is hard to say for certain what the main drivers were for this record year, we are thrilled to recognize the efforts of these accomplished hikers.
